Two Dead Two Badly Injured

ORPHANAGE GETS TWO OF FAMILY OF NINE CHILDREN

Engine Runs Wild With Fatal Result

Mt. Carmel, Pa., Nov. 15.—Two men are dead, two fatally scalded and a number injured as the result of one of the strangest accidents in the annals of the Lehigh railroad here, this morning. At 6:35 this morning, a four engine freight pulled out of the Mt. Carmel yards, but one engine was cut off and sent back got stuck on the heavy grade and to flag the passenger train due to leave the Mt. Carmel station at 7:05. At the upper end of the Sayre colliery, the side rod of the engine broke off, knocking off the cylinder and penetrating the boiler.

The escaping steam enveloped the men on the engine who were forced to jump to safety and the crippled engine ran wild down the grade into the station plunging into the standing train which was just about to start. M D. Beltze was scalded to death and Harry Houp, a fireman, was scalded from the waist down and suffered a fracture of the left arm. Howard Eb was perhaps fatally scalded and Charles Donat was slightly hurt. All these men were on the engine and are residents of Delano, Pa.

The crew of the passenger train jumped to safety but Michael Huben, a baggagemaster, was thrown against a trunk with such force that his head was shattered and he died almost instantly. Many of the passengers, including S. S Lowenthal of Pittsburgh, were injured.

Found Not Guilty

Just before noon Saturday the jury in the case of the Medical Society of Westmoreland county against David Hamilton of Greensburg, the so called water doctor, returned a verdict of not guilty, but Mr. Hamilton to pay the costs. It was distinctly a compromise verdict and was said to be generally satisfactory.

The medical profession charged that Hamilton had been practicing medicine without state authority. The defense contended that Hamilton did not prescribe for his patients, but it was established that he had a licensed physician in his place to prescribe.

The case was given to the jury at 4:30 Friday. They were far apart from the start. At 1 o'clock Saturday morning the jurymen stood, it was reported, at six for acquital, four for conviction and two refused to vote.

The jurymen at this time were sent to bed. They were about early Saturday morning and after breakfasting they renewed their fighting. Just before noon they announced that they hoped to agree within 10 minutes and Jpdge Copeland was sent for. He responded promptly and the verdict was taken.

Police Court News

Morgan Paul, a well known character in police circles, who has just returned from the county jail at Greensburg, was a prisoner before Burgess Stewart this morning, being charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The prisoner's face was badly battered but he had no recollections of how he came to be beat up. Burgess Stewart assessed a fine of $4.00 and costs which the prisoner was unable to pay and was sent back to his cell.

After being incarcerated, Morgan started to celebrate, having hid a bottle of Jamaica ginger in his pocket. He drank the entire contents of the bottle and was found in a drunken stupor on the floor of the cell. Three other prisoners charged with being drunk and disorderly paid fines of $2.00 and costs.

Alleged Gambler

Joseph Frascatore, a Donora pugilist well known in this city, is under arrest charged with conducting a gambling house in Donora. The charge was brought by Constable Charles Titus on information of Frank Hagans, who claims that he was a player in the game at Frascatore's house and purchased chips representing cash from Frascatore, who was running the game. When play was ended, Hagans did not have the money to pay for his chips and, Frascatore, according to the plaintiff's story, threatened to kill him. He then appealed to the police for protection and a warrant was sworn out for Frascatore's arrest, charging him with operating a gambling house.

THREE AUTOS DEMOLISHED AND OCCUPANTS INJURED IN SERIES OF ACCIDENTS

Two rather serious auto accidents occurred on the Monesser-Webster road during the early hours of Sunday morning, but fortunately the victims escaped death, although all were more or less seriously injured and two machines demolished. The first accident happened between one and two o'clock, near the Henderson Coal mine. Three men in a Ford car, traveling at a terrific rate of speed struck an obstruction and the car left the road, turning completely over and pinning all three of the occupants under the machine.

Their cries for help were heard by other autoists passing, who rescued them from their perilous position and brought them to this city for medical attention. They gave their names as John Goysich, Peter Perishak and John Neely, all of this city. Goysich was the most seriously injured, suffering from a lacerated scalp. Perischak had a bruised head and knee while Neeley received a bruised shoulder.

Another rather serious accident occurred about three o'clock Sunday morning on Schoonmaker avenue, near the street car bend at the lower end of town when a Templar touring car, painted red and driven by a well known young man of Donora, struck some unknown object and left the road, throwing the passengers out and practically demolishing the car. The injured occupants, including a young girl, were brought to this city for medical attention. The names of the occupants of the car could not be learned and much secrecy is being maintained by all concerned.

Early yesterday morning James Bronce, of Charleroi, driving a new Chevrolet five passenger car, with his father and two other people as passengers, attempted to pass a street car near the Universal Ice Plant at Black Diamond. Just as he shot past the car another street car came down in the opposite direction and the autoist was caught between the two cars Both motormen quickly applied their brakes and the autoists escaped without serious injury, although the car was badly damaged.

Late Saturday night a Ford touring car attempted to bump one of the big Donora busses off the road but only succeeded in tearing off a fender attain and throwing a scare into the passengers. The Ford was not damaged and rambled right along.

Chicago Police are Baffled by Mysterious Death of Two Women

(By United Press)

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Authorities investigating the death of two actresses found in Grant Park early this morning were informed that two women were seen in a struggle with two men in an auto near where the bodies were found. The dead women have been identified as Mary Rhodes of Altoona and Lillian Thompson of Boston. Authorities believe that the women either froze to death or died from wood alcohol poisoning. The police have located the man who made the telephone call notifying the police of the two bodies being found in the park. The message came from the Stratford Hotel, overlooking the scene of the tragedy.

Chicago, Nov 15.—A baffling mystery confronted police here today in the finding of the bodies of two young and pretty women, dead from an unknown cause. They were found early yesterday by police in Grant Park on the Lake front. Both had been bruised and had cuts on the face and hands as though from being dragged over the ground There were no other marks. Police were unable to determine whether they had been poisoned or whether they had been dragged, thrown from an automobile and left to die from exposure.

The two women were identified as vaudeville actresses Mary Rhodes, of Altoona, Pa., and Lillian Thompson, Boston.

Two men, Robert McCarthy of Boston and James Meeks, of Salt Lake City, made the identification. Both are electricians with a theatrical company here and were living at the same hotel as the dead women.

Early today police arrested a man whom they planned to question concerning the two women. They believed he might be able to throw light on the mystery. Both McCarthy and Meeks will remain in Chicago pending further investigation into their story.

According to Meeks and McCarthy the two girls disappeared Saturday night. One they had advanced was that they had gone in a closed car, had been killed and then taken to the park and thrown from an automobile. Police scout the suggestion that the girls might have wandered to the spot where they were found.

The bodies were discovered as a result of a mysterious telephone call which the police traced to an office in a downtown skyscraper. No one could be found, however, who knew anything about the call.

The informant, police say, said he had been living with his wife and daughter and saw the bodies as he drove by.

Miss Rhodes, according to police, went by the stage name of Mary Alma Ramey. She had been on the stage since 1900 and played "Limpy Morgan in "Human Hearts" Other plays in which she appeared included "East Lynn," "A Woman's Revenge" and "Ishmael." Lately she had been in vaudeville. Miss Thompson played in burlesque and in carnivals.

Meeks and McCarthy started a search for the woman late Saturday night. A neighbor said he had seen them enter a delicatessen store owned by Sylvia Citti.

Mother Keeps Nine Children Two Years

Mrs. Herman Larmi, who two years ago, during the flu epidemic, was bereft of her husband, this morning gave up two of her children that they might enter the Orphans Home at Ben Avon, Allegheny county Mrs. Larmi has been struggling by every conceivable way to keep her family of nine children with her, but with the approach of a hard winter, she decided she had better divide them and permit two to be sent where they will have good care and the advantages of plenty to eat and wear. The children who were sent were aged seven and nine years, Osmo K., and Olavi H.

The remaining seven children will be kept at home and the mother will care for them as best she can by her dilligent efforts. This was possibly one of the hardest days in the life of Mrs. Larmi and it was two hours after the appointed time to start that she was able to board the street car at Sixth and Donner She had anxious days before she could make up her mind which of the children could be spared best and which would gain the greater advantage by being tutored in the school for orphans. But after this problem had been solved the journey there, and then the farwell and the journey back home.

Such are indeed, the hard experiences of a mother who is left alone in the world to care for and rear children.

The flu epidemic left a strangle hold on Monessen. Many of the bread winners were taken away leaving large families to be cared for by mothers. There has been much charity work done but there is still more to do. The work of keeping many of these orphans in the schools until they have sufficient education to meet the hardships of the world, is a responsibility of the community and the above case is only one of the many that comes to light. Fortunately for this family, the father was a member of the I. O. O. F. No. 1130 and the home to which the children are being taken is an Odd Fellow institution. They were escorted on the journey by Daniel Reamer, local attorney.

Valuable Relics

Constable F. L. Watts has the finest collection of guns, knives, daggers and relics of all kinds to be found anywhere. He is constantly adding instruments of a curious nature and only recently purchased one of the famous old horse pistols which was among the first guns made. His collection has grown through the years until the present time and it may takes about an hour's time to view the different articles and hear his lecture which adds interest as the spectator looks over the collection.

While many of the instruments have an historical interest, the collection is not minus many weapons of local interest, which includes articles that were used by people who committed suicide such as, pistols, razors, jack knives, etc. As an officer, Mr Watts has been the first official to visit the scene of many a tragedy and as evidence, the instruments would be taken by him and when there was no owner to claim same they would be dedicated to his marvelous storehouse of relics.

While the relics gathered from local tragedies would have no pecuniary value, the guns, revolvers, swords etc, would be worth a considerable sum to individuals and institutions gathering relics of this kind. Mr Watts takes great interest in showing his collection and explaining the history connected with each one.

Troopers Investigate

Members of the Pennsylvania State Constabulary made a personal investigation of the recent fires in the Belle Vernon district and following their examination of several parties admitted that the authorities were as "much in the dark" as when the investigation began.

Several clues in connection with the destruction of the dancing pavilion were unearthed but failed to develop anything of definite nature when suspected parties were subjected to a severe examination. State police have also discouraged the idea of making a test experiment with blood hounds. They say such a plan at this late hour, particularly at the Marion school site, would be conducive of no results

Dynamite Home

(By United Press)

Castleton, Pa., Nov. 15—With a roar that could be heard for miles, the home of Joseph Farris was destroyed by an explosion of dynamite on the porch two o'clock this morning. Two other families occupied the house with Farris. It is believed that the explosion was caused by persons who Farris recently thwarted in a Black Hand plot.

Daring Murder

(By United Press)

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 15.—During a traffic jam and in sight of hundreds of pedestrians, Dewey Morgan a jitney driver was today shot to death in Kansas City's busiest street corner. V. P. Miller, the jitney passenger, was arrested and, according to the police, confessed to killing Morgan, whom, he claimed lured his wife from his home. According to the man's story, he and his brother in law were passengers in the car and were questioning Morgan, who also drove a jitney at night, in regards to the whereabouts of Mrs. Miller, and not receiving a favorable reply, he opened fire, shooting Morgan five times in the back. The car swerved to the sidewalk and Miller and his brother-in-law jumped out, Nicholson escaping in the crowd, but Miller was caught and turned over to the police.

Made Good Haul

(By United Press)

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 15—A country-wide search was instituted here today by police and federal authorities for the daring band of robbers who yesterday stole ten pouches of registered mail, variously estimated to contain from $10 000 to $10,000 000 from a fast transcontinental mail train, as it passed through here.

The loot, according to officials, consisted of California gold, currency, bonds and stocks. The currency, bonds and stocks were being sent from various California banks to their eastern correspondents. It is expected that it will be several days before the amount of loot taken is definitely known

According to railroad officials, the pouches were stolen after the train left Omaha and before it reached Council Bluffs, Iowa, the first station out of Omaha

A postal clerk, finding the door locked to the car where the pouches were, followed it down But the robbers had completed their work. The train runs slowly between Omaha and Council Bluffs and it would not have been difficult for the robbers to jump from the train.

PERSONAL RELATIONSHIP

A salesman for a wholesale house once said that a large element of his success was the effort he made to cultivate the friendship of all the men he saw along his route.

A great many salesmen on entering a store in some back town would simply seek out the proprietor and try to win his friendship by careful attention and often by insidious flattery. Meanwhile they would meet lesser employes of the store with a careless nod and pay no attention to them.

The salesman referred to made it his practice everywhere he went, to remember names and faces of subordinates about the store. He would greet old friends, discuss trade conditions and methods with them. He thus became intimately acquainted with a great number of people in his line. These men liked him and would throw business his way. In the natural course of promotion many of them became buyers for their stores or store proprietors and they preferred to do business with him. It helped him build up a big trade.

The live business man and the young fellow saying to make his way should cultivate the widest possible acquaintance with people who come in from the surrounding country. Every new face and name they can remember, means some one who later will bring business to this center.

Also the people who buy from mail order houses and in distant cities, forget the value of personal relations. The people who do business in their home town or natural trading center, form relations with a group of men who take special pains to please these regular customers. Also these business friendships prove valuable in many unexpected ways, and often have resulted in opening up new paths to success.

THE AIRCRAFT RACE

Rapid progress is being achieved in Europe in developing the art of aviation. Airplanes coming into England from the continent so far this year have carried $2,000,000 worth of freight. In spite of all diplomatic guarantees of peace, the European war offices will have their aerial forces in shape for efficient service if war breaks out.

Probably as usual America will lag behind in airplane development as a part of war preparation. It is not necessary to have a big force of planes. But it is necessary to have experts working on them all the time, so that at any given moment work on planes of the most serviceable and improved models could begin.

There should be factories with machines and workmen trained to airplane work, so that in case of emergency there would be little delay in turning out planes by quantity production.

FRATERNAL SOCIETIES

Fraternal society men in many places report a great increase of membership and many of them holding extra sessions to keep up with the work.

In hard times many people let society membership lapse. More prosperous conditions mean that more people can keep up dues and provide protection for themselves and families.

Joining of a good fraternal society is with many men a first step toward better citizenship. Many very thoughtless young fellows who never previously felt they had any civic duties, realize the obligation they owe the community, when they join some order which emphasizes good citizenship. When they associate themselves with industrious and substantial men they set a standard for themselves to live up to.

The movement of prices downward is slow enough to remind one of the remark of a sailor in a slow moving boat, to the effect that you had to spit overboard to see which way she was going.

When Congress is not in session there is an imperative demand that it meet and do something, and when it is in session there is a loud holler for it to quit talking and go home

Farmers complain that they and their farm animals are hit by stray shots from hunters. But they must remember that game is scarce and the hunters must have some sport.

The office seekers can't usually get jobs on their showing for efficiency, but perhaps they can demonstrate that they need public charity.

Search warrants are not sufficient to locate all the illegal liquor. It would take a stomach pump to get a lot of it.

The Old Red Barn Passes.

Boyhood days without a hayloft are like a play without a stage. The automobile has vanquished the big red barn, as the cement bottomed pool has the old swimming pool. The center of boyhood life has disappeared. Imagine the gang sneaking off from trusting parents on a hot afternoon and congregating in the shiny new garage. Where can they conceal the forbidden weapons, or the thumb-marked yellow-back that mother thinks has long since fallen into the ash heap? Where do they hide to escape the starched shirt and stiff shoes and the party? Where are the circuses given? The train robberies planned? And the hair-raising stories repeated? The carefree scenes of boyhood life has disappeared. Has it no field to grow and expand in. Half the joys of youth have vanished with the passing of the old red barn.—Summer Session Kansan.

Imposing on Hospitality.

In Alabama a negro team driver came home one night and found his wife highly agitated.

"Jeff," she said, "you know dat Ash Rogers' wife, Sallie, is dead. Ain't you goin' to be a pallbearer at de fun'r'l?"

"No, I ain't," answered Jeff with unusual positiveness.

"You ain't! Well, wasn't you a pallbearer at de fun'r'l of his second wife, Melissa?"

"So I wuz. But dat ain't—"

"En wuzn't you a pallbearer at de fun'r'l of his first wife, Mandie? What you mean, you ain't goin' to act dis time?"

"Liza," he said, "sutinly, I wuz a pallbearer at dem fun'r'ls, an I done de best I could, but I'm tellin' you now I ain't acceptin' no mo' favors from nobody what I can't return."—London Tit-Bits.

Many Surprises

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Nov. 15—Football's "dread line" waiting outside the door for an issue of championship pie was strung out somewhat today

Princeton in the east, Notre Dame and Ohio State in the west, Georgia Tech in the south had the line.

Pittsburgh and Harvard continued their shuffle to the front but neither showed the class that the Tigers did in trouncing Yale and Penn State lost prestige by barely getting a tie with Lehigh

Illinois was pulled out of the line in the west by Wisconsin, leaving Ohio State in undisputed lead of the western conference while Notre Dame remained Indiana

Georgia Tech gave further reasons for the south to claim its leading the strong Georgetown eleven.

Gasoline Drops

New York, Nov. 14—Tank wagon prices of gasoline will be reduced one cent a gallon tomorrow in states in which the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and the Standard Oil of Louisiana operate, it was announced here tonight by Walter C. Teagle, president of the New Jersey Company.

States in which the reduction will be effective include New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana Tennessee Arkansas and the District of Columbia

Peoples Forum

In justice to the accused and to all concerned, I would like to make a few remarks in the Peoples Forum, regarding the recent case of George Gueist. I have known Mr. Guiest for almost twenty years, and while he may have his failings along certain lines, I believe he is beyond suspicion in what he was accused of. I have known him to be friendly to children and to make friends in households, because of his interest in children, and the accusation against him recently seems to be almost unbearable by his good wife and family.

More on account of the notoriety Mr. Guiest may have attained on account of this scandal, I want to tell the public that I believe he is innocent.

Having taught school for six years in the rural districts I have an idea of how a man of Mr. Guiest's age would feel toward children.

This accusation may have been caused by a frightened child who never knew the love of a father, and who misunderstood his true motive I have a fair knowledge of Mr. Guiest's disposition toward children, and to think he is accused of such a crime, is almost unbelievable.

In my opinion Justice Shuster used good judgment in the disposition of the case. However, I don't think Mr. Gueist should have paid the costs. It seems as if he was partly guilty and yet the evidence could not convict him.

He was either guilty or not guilty and if a man is innocent, why should he pay the costs.

I am the father of several children and knowing the man as I do, I would not be afraid to put any of my children in his care.

This affair, to those who have only outside information, may mean much to Mr. Guiest and family, and I think should be ignored by all broad minded people If he was guilty he should be burned at the stake; if not guilty, he should be vindicated.

Such an accusation might be brought against any man who loves children, and to think that a man with a family, and more than fifty years of age, could lower himself to such depths, is beyond comparison with a man of Mr. Guiest's intelligence

This is written without the knowledge of either Mr. Guiest or family, and only because I think he is wrongly accused and should be vindicated.

JUSTICE.

Convict Highway Man

Ovidis Costello, of Charleroi, was convicted before Judge J. A. McIlvaine on a charge of highway robbery. It was alleged that on the evening of October 1, last, he held up Peter T. McIlvired, of Charleroi, and at the point of a revolver went through his clothes taking $1 in change, a bunch of keys and an identification card of the steel mill in Monessen.

McIlvired lives in Charleroi and works in the mills in this city. He left his home for work about 7:15 o'clock in the evening the October 10 and when he reached the corner of Lincoln avenue and 13th street he was stopped by a man who held a revolver against him and went thru his clothes. McIlvired alleges that the light from a street light gave him a good view of the bandit and he told the man he would recognize him again After the holdup the victim reported the matter to the police with a description of the man. McIlvired says he had noticed the defendant around Charleroi for some time but he was not acquainted with him. This aided him in recognizing him.

Several days after the holdup McIlvired was called to police headquarters and positively identified the man who had held him up. When in court he repeated his statement that he was positive that Costello was the man who robbed him. The defendant put up an alibi.

Reds on Trial

Nick Lisiuk, aged 32, and Mike Konsevich, aged 37 of 2227 Forbes street; John Odinoff, aged 35 of Russelton and Abe Snecarenko, aged 28, of 26 Vine street, arrested early yesterday in the Forbes street residence, where city dectives and federal agents say, radical literature was found, will be prosecuted in the state courts under the Flinn act of 1919, which provides a severe penalty for sedition, according to the detectives.

Stephen Zamoff a Russian, of 1522 Fifth avenue, another alleged "red" who was arrested last week, is in the county jail awaiting court trial. Detectives say there will be further arrests in connection with the alleged discovery of radical literature.

Owls Lodge in Oxford.

Owls, as is proper in the case of birds of such renowned solemnity and secluded habit, have always exhibited a particular liking for Oxford, where more than one college, but particularly Worcester, has its colony.

Recently they have established a new colony in the ivy-covered walls of the Bodleian library and the Tower of the Five Orders, in the Old Schools quadrangle.

Members of the Bodley staff now occasionally find relaxation from their duties by rescuing the young birds which find their way down on to the pavement of the quadrangle, and are unable to fly up to their nests.—Westminster Gazette.

Immersion Heater.

An exceedingly practical contrivance for a mother is an electrical immersion heater, cylinder shaped. This will heat water or milk for the baby or invalid in a moment at any time, day or night. This cylinder is simply plunged into the liquid and the plug attached. It takes only a moment to make the liquid boiling hot.

Why Spoil a Suit?

"There's a ladder against this building. I'll bet you a dinner you won't walk under it."

"Ha! Superstition?"

"No, horse sense. There's a man at the top of that ladder with a bucket of paint in his hand."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

POWER IN RADIUM WATCH

Owner of Radiolite Timepiece Is Also Possessor of Vast Power Plant.

The possessor of a radiolite watch or one having a radium dial by which the time can be detected at night, is also the possessor of a vast power plant of no mean proportions, according to a writer in the Electrical Experimenter. There is sufficient radium on your watch to haul your train home if it could be properly applied, says this author.

As the matter stands, the innocent-looking radium dial does not seem to possess any extraordinary amount of concentrated energy, but this is only apparently the case, and not actually so, for the reason that while the amount of activity manifested by the radium paint on the dial is small, this effect will keep up for 2,500 years, provided the zinc sulphide, with which the radium is mixed so as to produce a glow, holds out that long. The zinc sulphide in most cases gives out in about eight to ten years.

Now, if we could but find a way to make the radium release all its energy in a few hours, instead of spreading it over 2,500 years, it would not be difficult to make a motor that would utilize this energy.

Seeing Through Other's Eyes.

We all have our natural tendency toward a bias of one sort or another. When we see through other's eyes we also add their bias to our own. There is a possibility that one bias will counteract the other. If so it is well. It is also possible that one bias will add very greatly to another. Then what an unfair verdict you must render. Poor judgment is sure to follow and shame will lay at your door before you dream it possible. Yet most of us are to more or less extent guilty of the habit. It's so easy to take our start from where others leave off. We are compromised to the extent that we lean on their judgments. It isn't fair and often leads to sorrow.

Don't make too much fun of the other fellow's glasses. He may be badly biased, but then you have no means of knowing how you look in his eyes. We are all more or less influenced by our heredity and environment. So the wise thing is to get all the facts possible before we pass judgment.

Unique Moccasins.

Braves of the Passamaquoddy Indians at the Pleasant Point (Me.) reservation do a thriving business among summer visitors by the sale of moccasins made from the feet of seals. Seals are prolific in Passamaquoddy bay. The Indians kill many of them each year. The hides are tanned and used for various purposes and the feet are worked up into footwear both for their own use and for commerce. The fact that there is always a claw, or nail, left for each of the five toes makes these articles of footwear unique and gives them an appeal to the tourists who visit the reservation.

Virtues of Bare Feet.

Eve was reputedly barefoot, and Nausicaa played ball all the better because she went unshod.

Helen of Troy at the most wore sandals, and the sandal is the compromise between the shoeless and the shod. It is easier to make sandals than to make boots.

In Ireland and Scotland the children have run barefoot for many a day, and the wit of the one and the enterprise of the other show that there is nothing really demoralizing in going without shoes and stockings.—London Chronicle.

A Slight Omission.

Bertie—Good heavens! What a sight you are!

Reggie—Just as I was leaving the house to come to the club my wife pelted me with flowers.

"But that doesn't account for your bruised and battered appearance."

"No, you see, she forgot to take them out of the pots!"—From the Edinburgh Scotsman.

Davy Jones' Rich Cargo.

A diver was sent down recently at New York to locate a case of machinery that had fallen into the river. As soon as he reached the bottom he signaled that he wished to come up. When his helmet was removed, the first thing he said was, "What's the number of the case?" There were so many cases at the bottom of the river that he didn't know which one belonged to his employers. The amount of cargo that is lost in loading and unloading ships is enormous.—Popular Science Monthly.

Getting Desperate.

Felix Frankfurter of the Popular Government league, said at a banquet in Cambridge:

"The authorities, to soothe us—for they see we're getting pretty desperate—the authorities now declare that the high cost of living is going to fall."

Mr. Frankfurter made a gesture of scorn and incredulity.

"Well, it has fallen," he said—"on the consumer."

Ideas Confused.

"How are the women here as conversationalists?"

"The light one over there is rather heavy, but the dark girl beside her is very light."

Extremes Meeting.

"The electrician who was on the spot was certainly a live wire."

"How do you know?"

"I could tell by the way he handled the dead one."

First Meeting of Assembly of the League of Nations

(By United Press)

Geneva, Nov. 15—Geneva, "capital of the world", was crowded to capacity today when representatives of fifty-one nations from every corner of the globe were gathered to attend the first meeting of the assembly of the League of Nations.

Of the forty-five powers mentioned in the Covenant of the League, forty-two have already declared their Allegiance to the League and were expected to avail themselves of their right to attend the first assembly meeting. Thirteen others, not named in the organic document, have applied for admission and likely will have delegates on the ground

The program to be followed at the meeting will probably be (1) hearing reports of various commissions authorized by the council of the League to investigate international problems; (2) discussion and adoption of rules of procedure and examination of credentials of delegates; (3) admission of states not mentioned in Covenant; (4) appointment and ratification of certain commissions named by the League council to carry out provisions of the peace treaty; (5) discussion of the relations between the council and the assembly; (6) report of Sir Eric Drummond on the work of the secretariat; discussion and debate on the Root-Philimore world court; and a score of other important questions relating to questions of health traffic in women, gas, repatriation of ex-enemy prisoners from Russia and Germany to their respective homes; the Polish minority treaty; the resolution regarding the admission of Switzerland; the first and second budgets of the League; relief in Central Europe and methods of combatting typhus; report on the plebiscite in Eupen and Malmedy.

Probably one of the most wallish problems the assembly will be called on to settle is likely to be proposal to the League by Peru, Chile and Bolivia. It is the Tacna-Arica boundary controversy. Both the Peruvians and Bolivians have made known their intention of submitting the question to the League for settlement. It is expected Chili will acquiesce.

Since the seventies, the question of who owns Tacna-Arica has worried statesmen of South America, and in fact Chili actually declared war on Peru and with Treaty of Ancon gained possession of the disputed province. A plebiscite was set for ten years after signed, but for several reasons the will of the inhabitants was never allowed to be expressed. Since then, crisis has appeared on many occasions, but although no diplomatic relations are maintained between Peru and Chili, there has been no war.

Of most interest to the United States, perhaps, in view of the failure of that nation to enter the League, is the assembly's attitude toward the Root-Phillmore International court of Arbitration, proposed by a committee of world jurists under guidance of Elihu Root, former Secretary of State under President Roosevelt.

Inasmuch as several Europeans nations are opposed to the unlimited powers of the court, as the United States is to the unqualified Article fifteen of the Covenant, considerable debate is expected before the court's constitution is finally approved.

That the court will certainly be established is assured by action of the League council in approving of the plan for formulation of a permanent court of international justice. Mainly the mooted questions are what form it will take and to what extent nations will adhere to its decisions.

WORKMEN INVOLVED IN STRIKES

Harrisburg, Nov. 13.— Pennsylvania workmen were involved in 427 strikes during the first nine months of this year, according to figures announced here today by Dr. Clifford Department of Labor and Industry. B. Connelley, Commissioner of the

JEWELS USED IN WATCHES

Hard Substance Is Needed to Withstand the Constant Friction Which Wears Away Moving Parts.

The principal reason for the deterioration of any piece of machinery is because the constant friction wears away the moving parts and interferes with the regularity of the mechanism. A watch, being a machine in which absolute uniformity of speed is essential, it is necessary to reduce this friction to a minimum—either through constant oiling, the use of ball bearings or some very hard material which will withstand the wear and tear of constant friction. The first two of these methods are not feasible in so small a piece of machinery as a watch, so certain very hard jewels are placed at various points to counteract the rubbing caused by the moving parts.

Watches are generally equipped with 7, 15, 17, 18, 21 or 23 jewels, the 15 and 17 jewel types being the most popular. Intrinsically, the jewels used in the manufacture of watches are of little value, but from the standpoint of service and the specific purpose which they serve they are invaluable. The jewels usually used in watchmaking are the hardest of the precious stones, diamonds, sapphires and rubies, and of these the most generally used is the sapphire, which combines hardness with comparatively reasonable price.

Mosquitoes Dislike Swamps.

Recent experiments prove that, contrary to the general belief, mosquitoes do not thrive and multiply in foul, stagnant water. In fact, mosquito larvae actually lose vigor and die when surrounded by decomposed vegetation. Whether this is due to bacterial action on the larvae or to an excess of injurious gas due to the decomposition has not been ascertained. At any rate, swamps are not guilty of encouraging mosquitoes, and clearing these swamps does harm.—Popular Science Monthly.

Frivolous Personalities.

"I wonder if Mrs. Gadder knows anything about Fiume?"

"You'd better not mention the subject to her."

"Why not?"

"She may think you are talking about something that can be made in a chafing dish."—Birmingham Age Herald.

PAULINE FREDERICK

Turned out into the streets through the unjust suspicions of her husband ceived the dearest privilege of a mother's heart, the right to see her son—Jacqueline Florjot maintained the sacred traditions of mother hood even though the more of a sordid life retarded her weary footsteps. Her husband, grown in political influence, became the judge of a Paris criminal court and strangely enough Jacqueline's murder of a blackmailed who would have ruined his career brought her before his bar of justice for punishment. Another cruel twist of fate and Raymond Florjot his son, was placed before the bar in her defence. And here the tragic triangle fought its piteous battle. The mother recognized her husband in the stern justice before her but her eyes did not perceive her son. When the truth came, when her woman's honor was vindicated, death gave her peace. "Madame X" is tragedy, but it is tragedy of the sort that distills and purifies one's thoughts and deals Pauline Frederick as Jacqueline Florjot, has a role in which she exceeds all her previous efforts. She is the zenith of her art in this masterpiece. See it at the Olympic theatre Tuesday and Wednesday. 1t
